Hike Through Occoquan Regional Park, Stroll Through Town of Occoquan, and Visit Workhouse Arts Center

Hike about 7 miles largely on asphalt trails at a moderately fast pace from the wonderful Workhouse Arts Center (DC's former infamous Lorton Reformatory prison & the gateway to Laurel Hill's hiking, equestrian, & mountain-biking trails) downhill to Occoquan Regional Park (the riverside start of Fairfax's 40.5-mile Cross County Trail & where a memorial is planned for suffragettes -- female civil rights leaders -- who were jailed nearby for demanding the right to vote) & then cross the "hidden" pedestrian-only bridge over the Occoquan River to the quaint Town of Occoquan.

Members and their guests: Free, $2 donation to Sierra Club encouraged

When: Sunday, November 6, 10:00am - 3:00pm

Where: Workhouse Art Center, 9518 Workhouse Way
Lorton, VA 22079

The University of Chicago Club has invited us to a Beer Tasting at Denizens Brewing Co.

Ever wonder what's the difference between a Belgian pale ale and an American oatmeal stout? Join alumni from the University of Chicago and University of York. Indulge your curiosity, taste buds and thirst and celebrate fall as we take a tour of Denizens Brewing Co. in Silver Spring on Nov. 12 at 3:00 pm.

Denizens is the largest production brewery in Montgomery County and the only female-owned and operated brewery in the state of Maryland.

A $10 ticket buys you a 30-minute explanation of the beer making process by Denizens brewers who will also pour for you a sample of 4 of their artisan beers. Mingle your Saturday afternoon away with like-minded beer lovers and witness what happens when you mix good company with a good malt. Denizens also offers a variety of delicious foods and is a ten minute walk away from Silver Spring/red line metro. Several public parking lots are also available nearby.

Contact HCW member Tim for additional info: tfchampney@earthlink.net

Cost: Tickets are $10

When: Saturday, November 12, 3:00pm - 3:30pm

Where: Denizens Brewing Company
1115 East-West Highway, Silver Spring, MD 20910

Fuego Flamenco at the Gala Hispanic Theatre

Please join us for a dynamic performance by this Spanish flamenco group.

This new piece by Francisco Hidalgo explores the beats of silence, the dance of three bodies merging to join the musical notes and the broken voices that resonate in the space and reveal their innermost selves. With support from the Embassy of Spain, SPAIN arts & culture, and the Fundación Conservatorio Casa Patas.

Cost: $25 for members and their guests; $40 for non-members

When: Sunday, November 13, 1:30pm - 3:45pm

Where: Gala Hispanic Theatre, 3333 14th Street, NW, Washington, DC 20010

Tour of Patriotic and Political Paraphernalia at the Textile Museum

Smack in the middle of the 2016 presidential campaign, the George Washington University Museum and The Textile Museum has mounted an exhibit of political paraphernalia made of fabric. The exhibit is well-timed—not just for appearing during the presidential election season but for echoing, across the span of centuries, some of 2016's more contentious political themes.

A number of specimens spotlight the long history of political myth-making, such as the dubious portrayal of Virginia aristocrat William Henry Harrison as living in a log cabin and drinking from a barrel of cider, and a suspiciously skinny portrayal of William Howard Taft. Grover Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison, for their part, propelled themselves into the White House thanks in part to the surprisingly long-lived fad of politically themed bandannas, almost always printed in a deep red hue that presages the 1980s headgear of Bruce Springsteen. It should come as no surprise that Mr. Macho himself, Theodore Roosevelt, rocked the bandanna the best. The exhibit, however, includes an under-current of gravity, with pieces that dabble in immigration restrictions, protectionism, political reform, economic uncertainty and patriotism.

Cost: Free, but limited to members and their guests

When: Thursday, November 17, 5:15pm - 6:15pm

Where: The Textile Museum, 701 21st Street, NW, Washington, DC 20052

Harvard-Yale Game Viewing Party

Join your fellow alumni to watch the 132nd Harvard-Yale game. Harvard has won the last nine years, so here's hoping we'll make it ten in a row. We'll start gathering at noon. Cash bar and food. Plenty of choices on the menu, including pizza & flatbreads, short rib tacos, ten spice wings, spicy baba ghanoush, mussels, salads, and burgers.

Cost: Free; registration not required but encouraged

When: Saturday, November 19, 12:00pm - 4:00pm

Where: City Tap House, 901 9th Street, NW, Washington, DC 20001

Socialize, Sip and Shop at LiLi the First

Located in the heart of Georgetown, LiLi The First boutique is a fashion home for emerging American and International designers who are working exclusively with boutiques around the world.

The collections are a reflection of our women: unique, sophisticated, high quality and only available in small quantities. We are passionate about chic, comfort, and providing women with different fashion choices rather than the obvious ones. Wide range of sizes available (XS to XL).

Giving back to the community and supporting women in particular are the cornerstones of LiLi The First. In 2014, the boutique introduced the "Fashion Support" rack to support and empower women in our community via The Women's Center in DC.

Cost: Free, but limited to members and their guests

When: Sunday, November 20, 4:00pm - 6:00pm

Where: Lili the First, 1419 Wisconsin Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20007

Tour of Bingata! Only in Okinawa at the Textile Museum

Okinawa, Japan's southernmost prefecture, was an independent kingdom until 1879, with its own language, culture, and distinctive textile traditions. This special showing of textile treasures from Okinawan museum collections will feature brightly colored bingata—traditional resist-dyed fabrics—and contemporary works by Okinawan artists and fashion designers. Organized in partnership with the Okinawa Prefectural Government. Major grant support for this exhibition is provided by the Coby Foundation, Ltd., and the E. Rhodes and Leona B. Carpenter Foundation.

The tour will be led by HCW member, Dr. Ruth McDiarmid.

Cost: Free, but limited to members and their guests

When: Thursday, December 15, 5:15pm - 6:15pm

Where: The Textile Museum

701 21st Street, NW Washington, DC 20052

Luke Frazier & the American Pops Orchestra present I'LL BE SEEING YOU - A WWII LOVE STORY

Maestro LUKE FRAZIER and THE AMERICAN POPS ORCHESTRA — Washington, DC's innovative hometown orchestra — will open their all-star 2016-2017 season with I'll Be Seeing You: A World War II Love Story on Veterans Day, Friday, November 11 at 8:00 PM. Based on letters exchanged between a sailor and his sweetheart (Luke Frazier's own grandparents) during World War II, this original show tells a timeless story of love between those who serve and those who await their safe return. The work pays tribute to a fantastic era in popular music and gives a heartwarming glimpse into the experience of a real-life Navy family.

I'll Be Seeing You: A World War II Love Story stars Broadway and TV favorites Ron Raines (TV's "Guiding Light," Follies at the Kennedy Center, Tony nominated on Broadway), Florence Lacey (Sunday in the Park... at the Kennedy Center), Claybourne Elder (The CW-TV's "The Carrie Diaries," Sunday in the Park... at the Signature), and Rachel Eskenazi-Gold (currently Christine Daaé in Broadway's Phantom of the Opera). The show is written by Kelley Lund, directed by Nathan Brewer, choreographed by Kelly Crandall d'Amboise, and features dancers Ronald Brady, Jr. and Hannah Jennens.

There will be an optional pre-concert gathering for dinner and drinks. This will be an excellent opportunity to connect with other Club members.

Cost: $50 for members and their guests; $65 for non-members

When: Friday, November 11, 8:00pm - 10:30pm

Where: Lisner Auditorium, 730 21st Street, NW, Washington, DC 20052

Note: All headlines in the newsletter are "clickable" and will take you to the event page online.
